new dimensions

new dimensions herald the rebirth of greenwood high school. they replace the old ghs in the mind's eye and come to represent the school as it is now. different elements, separate yet unified, make up a new picture and a new image. stairs, a series of steps, lead us into new worlds, bring us down to our responsibilities, and witness the passing of students, teachers, and time. corridors, shooting straight into the future, are the essence of the school. the meeting place for all, they're the crux of what's happening at ghs, a section of the road to the future, and the pipelines of communication. doors, rectangular openings on a new world, shadowed in sunlight, cast impressions on walls, floors, and minds. windows, shielding the inner sanctum from the elements, provide, for a moment, the environment of learning. walks, leading out again as day is done, wait to lead back in—to show us the new dimensions of our lives and the importance of our existence.

new dimensions open gateways that lead to pathways of understanding the curriculum of greenwood high school has also taken on new and added dimensions. along with the old, they provide a new appearance for the material to be learned here and for those who learn it. computers have taken over many aspects of the teacher's job, such as compiling, administering, scoring tests, and recording grades. new teachers have become features on a face that is still changing. as they change, so will it. students' attitudes have become more demanding, taking on characteristics of question and rebellion. it is no longer good enough for them to be simply educated. they must know that their education has relevance to the outside world, for they have realized that there is no magic shield to protect them —that their education is only as good as the effort put into it. of course, tradition still exists. there is no substitute for, no modern edition of, the concern a teacher feels for his student or the extras that make learning fun as well as meaningful. as a balance is achieved between old and new, improvements will occur and the system will adjust itself to the demands of today.

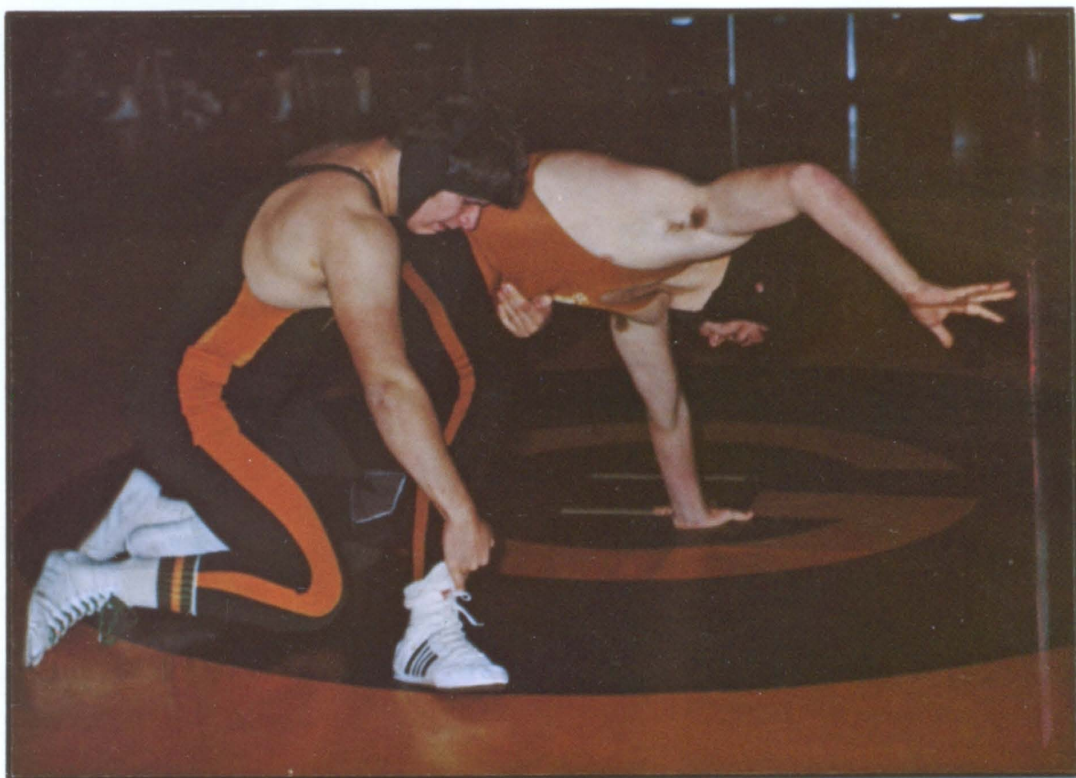

the sports scene took on new dimensions at ghs last year. the track team boasted another county championship, but for the first in our history a woodman, gordon crail, vaulted to new heights by winning both state and national titles.

this year was one of heart-breaks and excitement for all woodmen fans. the football team, sporting their new green and gold colors, finished the season with great determination for a bigger and better future.

the basketball team had one of its greatest seasons by capturing the mid-state conference crown along with player of the year, jerry nichols, and coach of the year, jack nay.

good showings were also made by the golf, baseball, tennis, cross-country and wrestling squads and the future looks bright for these hard-working athletes.

ideally, students go to school for knowledge, but it isn't all taught in the classroom, but in the things that go on outside of class. it is made up of everything that happens to the student during his life, and especially during the four years of high school. whether connected with school or not, these happenings provide a diversion from the daily routine and a relief from the pressure of things to be done. along with school go the many opportunities for involvement so dear to young people. working, talking, planning, straining to make it work, to improve on what exists and being able to say, "i helped, i belong, i'm involved," are a stamp of approval, a necessity for students.

a quiet stroll in the park is the thing when life seems to have lost its meaning and it doesn't seem worth it any more. it brings us closer to each other and calms the inner self. it is possible also to relax by working very hard. marching until your leg muscles refuse to go on, sweating in the sun and shivering in the cold, all seem to bring on a sense of accomplishment. when an honor is awarded the work that has been done seems small compared to what it produces.

clubs, whether active in service to the school, designed to promote interest in a certain subject or activity or merely honorary in nature, stress working together and give opportunities for leadership to be recognized. everyone fits in somewhere, whether it is as leader, follower, or advisor.

happenings stir inevitable emotions, delight the participant and audience and cause momentous dimensions

people, working together on common interests, united by common goals and common talent, form groups.

groups offer an opportunity for self-expression. a student who likes music, art, writing, language, business, or a myriad of other things can find them here at ghs. these organizations enable each student to pursue his favorite hobby or interest while helping him to decide if he is really suited to the type of work or participation involved. leaders emerge, shaping their own appearance as they help shape the appearance of the system. competition, enrichment, valuable experience in dealing with others, a chance to blow off steam, are all offered as a condition of membership.

the bond of mutual direction stays the same, but the direction and the people change. what was important or popular ten, five, or even one year ago isn't necessarily important now. students change, and so do their interests. they want different things for themselves. as the world changes, so do they, and many times the organizations they found reflect society. when pollution is a problem, conservationists band together; when computers come into vogue, so do computer technicians. one new dimension in the group structure is drama club. budding actors and directors can learn as they bring enjoyment to others. people need to realize their potential, and being interested in something is one way to do it.

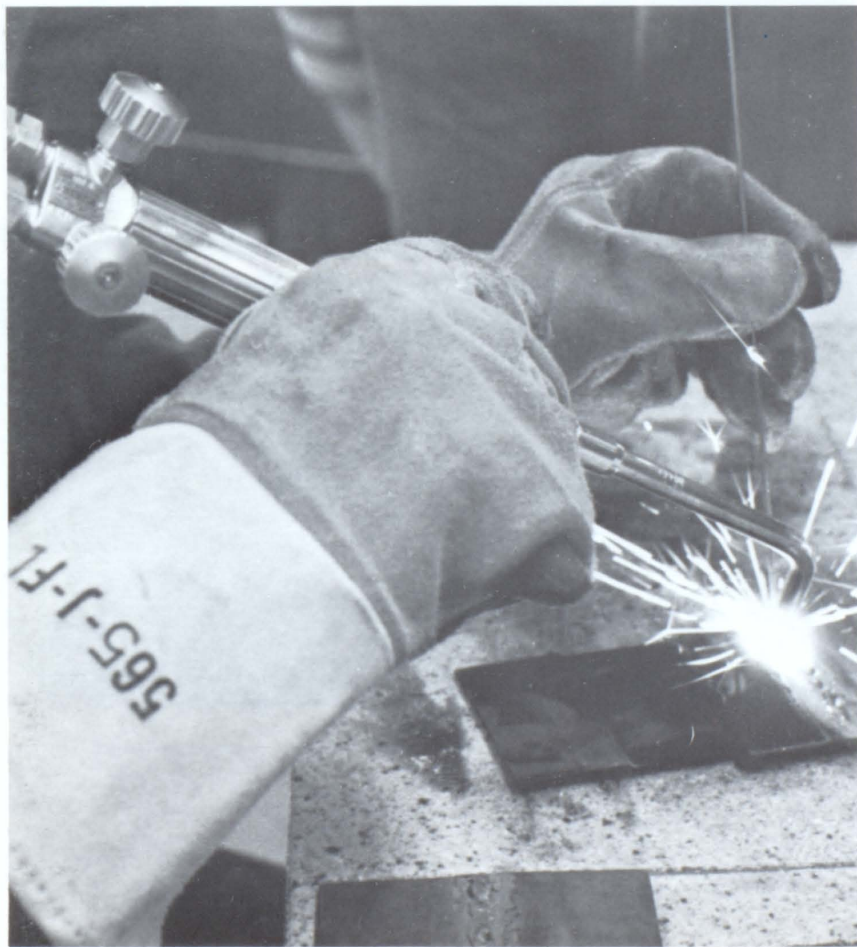

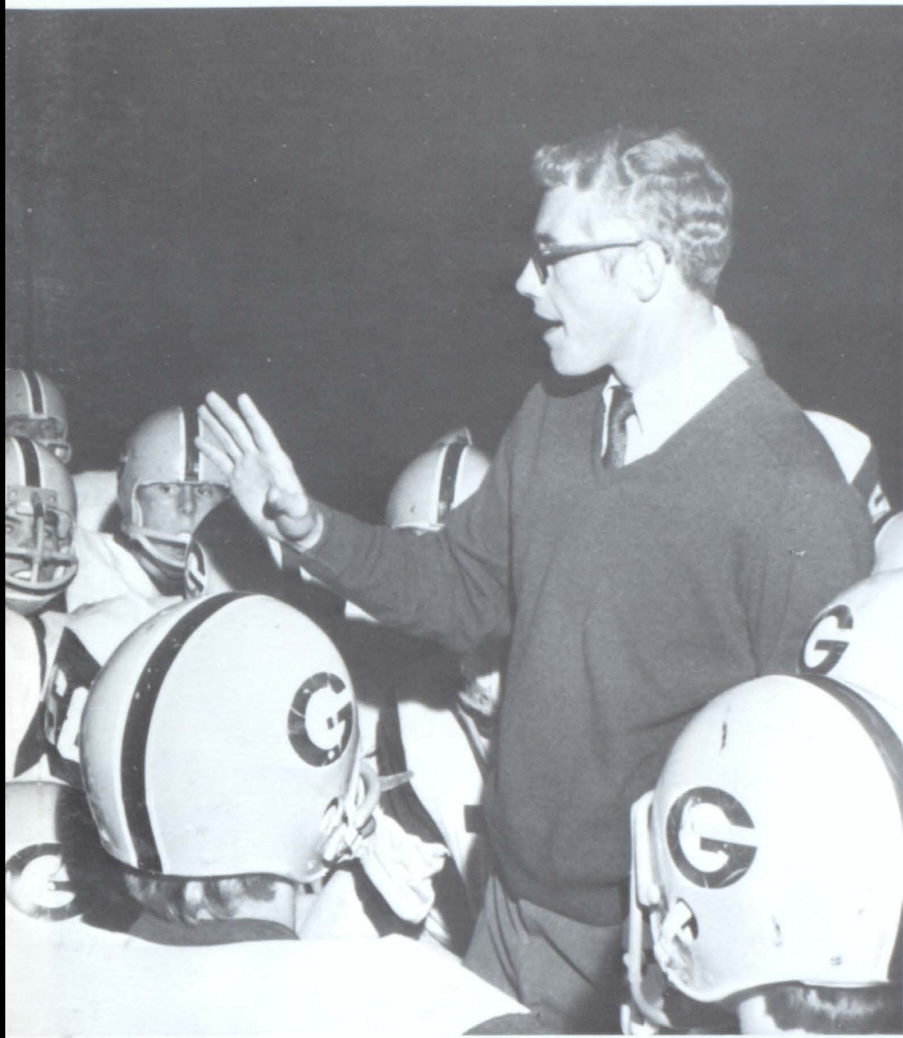

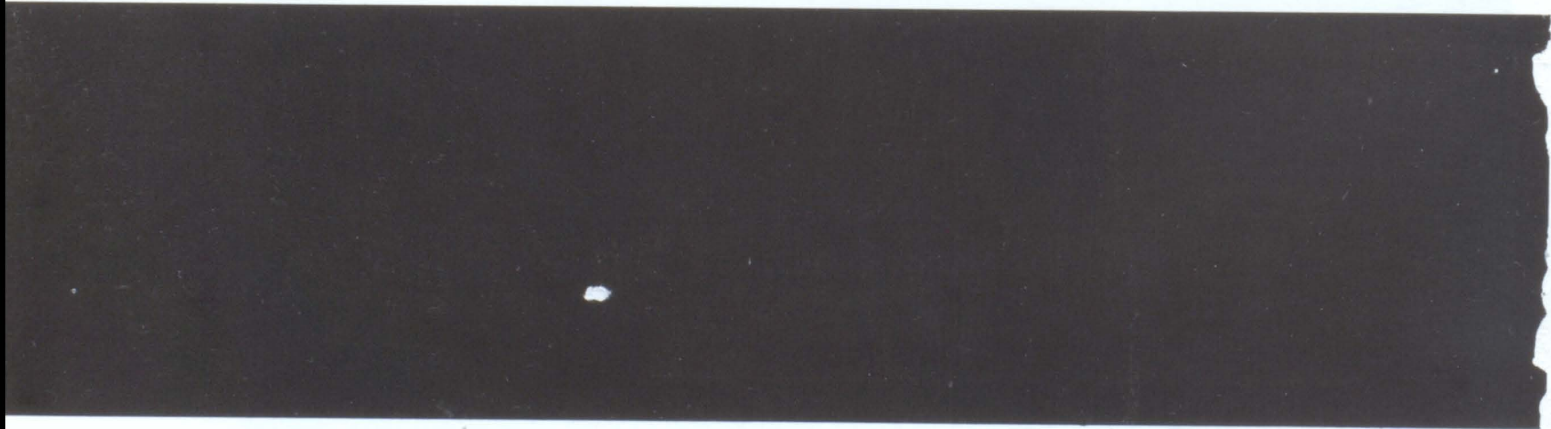

as the students of ghs return to school, they look forward to the greeting of old friends and the meeting of new ones. the forgetting of locker combinations, locker numbers and lunch money are only a few of the everyday dilemmas the freshmen encounter during the first few weeks. the sophomores find it easier to remember such things but can't seem to take care of them. instead, they begin by jamming lockers, losing books, pens, notebooks and other various items needed by them for completion of schoolwork.

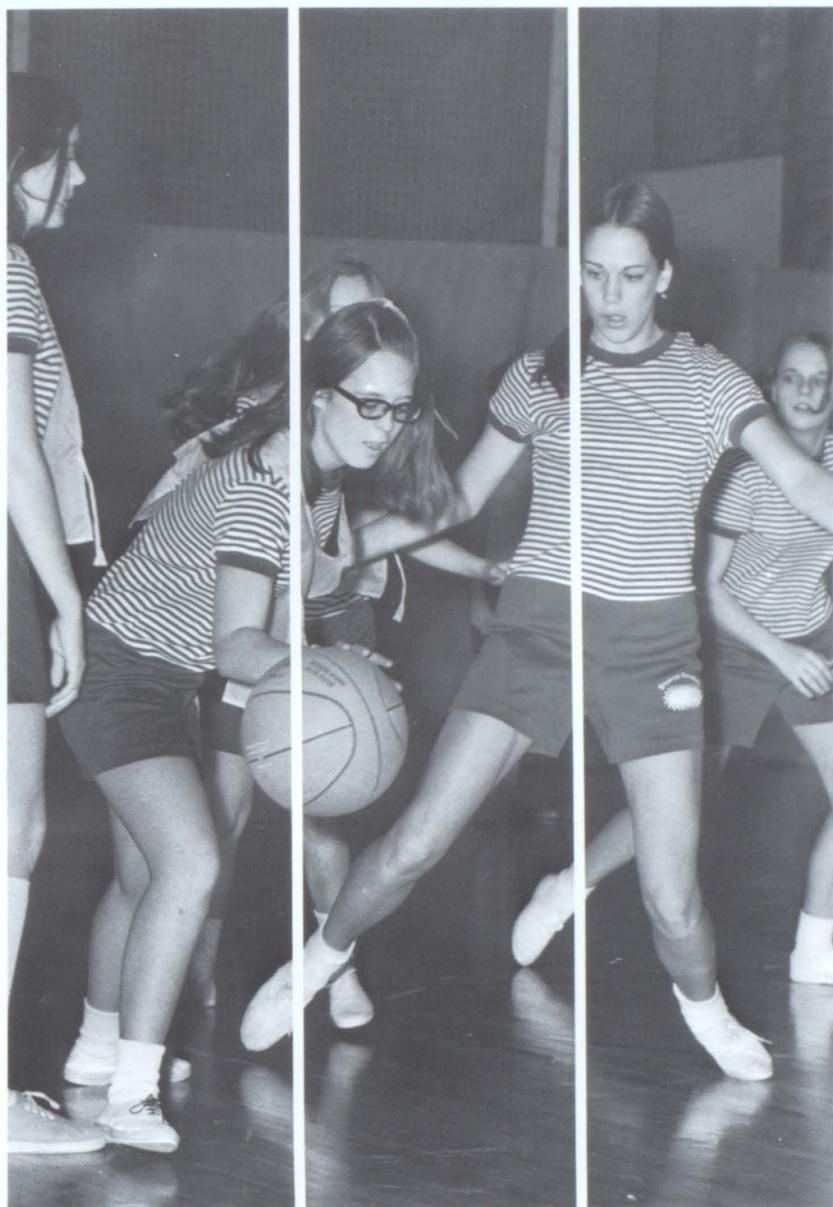

although the junior class has these everyday occurrences of careless and forgetful trivialities, they seem to be more concerned with making decisions and achieving the desired grades. the strain and stress builds as the seniors strive for the long-awaited accomplishment of graduation.

aside from all these problems, the hallways are still filled with the same exciting jargon of the students because of the understanding and cooperation among friends.

Senior

The English Department is full of new dimensions this year. Besides the regular grammar, composition, literature, and speech classes are a variety of new courses. Advanced Senior English, the equivalent of a college freshman course, is offered to students in the accelerated track. An advanced dramatics class was added the second semester to follow up the first semester course. Enjoying a discussion of a

One of GHS' biggest gains this year is Mr. Al Stone, coming here after WNAP and Beech Grove Junior High. Mr. Stone is technical director for the new auditorium and he also teaches literature and advanced dramatics. His teaching was filled with new techniques to add interest for the students. While lecturing to one of his lit classes he pounds a rhythm to emphasize his point (upper right).

Mr. Larry McCarty assists David Beeson while Mary Kay Loos, Elizabeth Heininger, and Peggy Everett, members of the first year journalism class, go on with their research (lower left).

Charlie Andrews, member of the student tech crew, plugs in wires for the auditorium's electrical system (lower right).

english adds journalism II, dramatics classes

Being able to speak foreign language is an asset to anyone and many colleges also require a foreign language for admission. A student may take anywhere from one to four years at Greenwood. Most take just one or two, but those who are really interested can become fluent in three or four years. The "romance" languages, Spanish, French, and Latin, are included in the curriculum.

Contrary to rumors, Latin is not a dead language, at least not here. Latin, from which many other languages are derived, helps with the spelling, and translation of other tongues.

French, one of the most musical languages, and rapid-fire Spanish give students a second speaking language. In third and fourth year French, Cindy Miles, Mary Miller and Ellen Davis listen closely to a translation while Anita Wojtowicz is distracted by something (left). During this year, the fourth year French class edited a newspaper very similar to the school newspaper, only in French. It consisted of such things as Peanuts cartoons, Dear Rachel (Dear Abby) letters, poetry and editorials. This proved to be an interesting and exciting project for the advanced class.

Also, Spanish students learned to play "Simon Says", Spanish style, "Simón Dice."

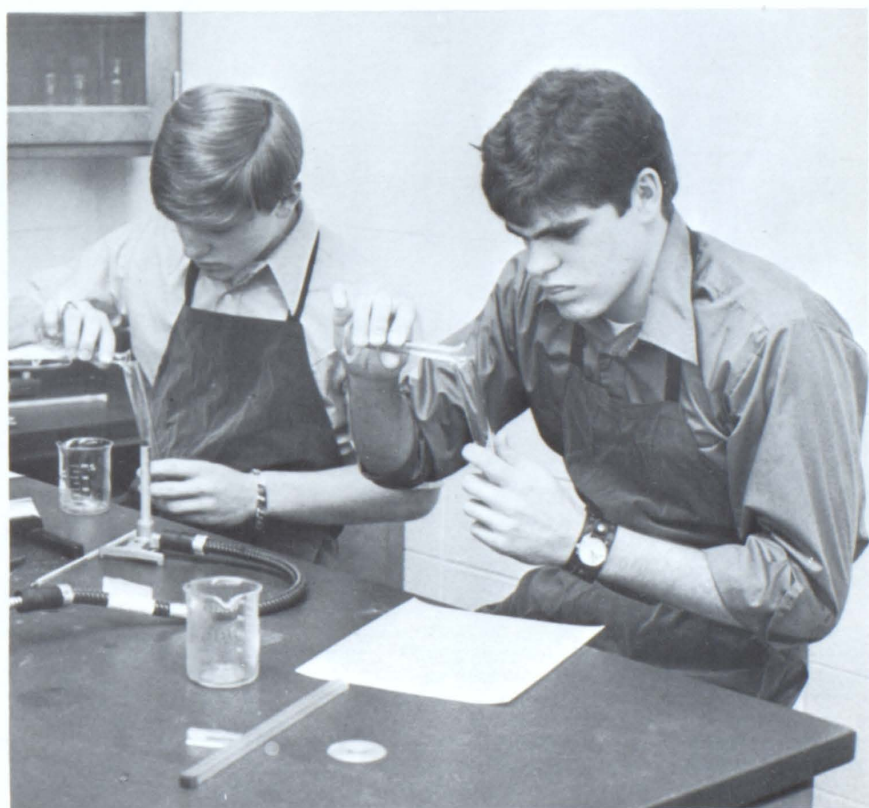

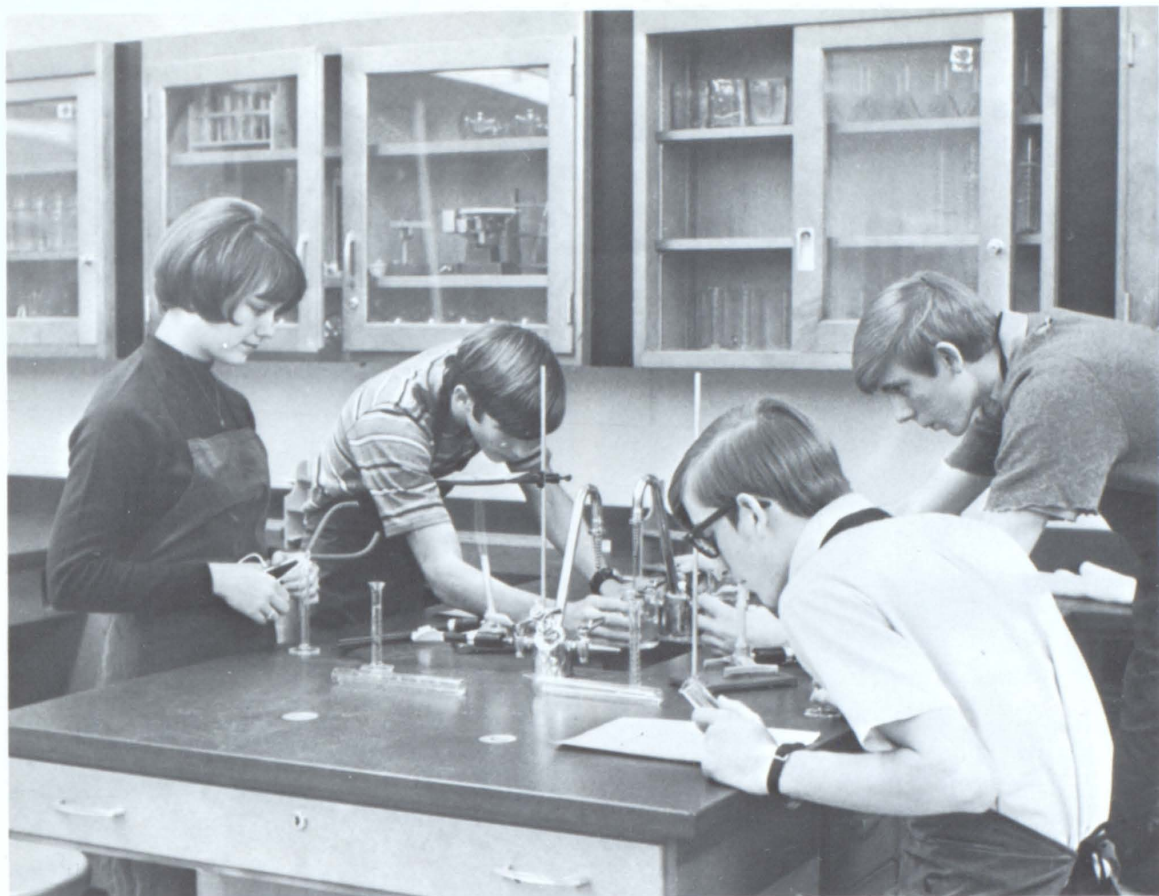

course additions advance department offerings

Study is necessary for all subjects, especially mathematics and science. Every branch of these subjects requires class work, concentration and help from the teacher. Pre-algebra and basic math, designed to prepare the student to study algebra, reinforce the fundamentals learned in junior high math. Algebra, geometry, physical science, and biology, college-prep courses, are taken by most students. Only those who are really interested in mathematics and science go on to take advanced algebra, trigonometry, calculus, advanced chemistry, and advanced biology. Pre-algebra, requires Linda Turner's complete concentration, (below). The bulletin board devised by the math department shows the many aspects of high school math (upper right). Pre-algebra student Gloria Walker is helped by Mr. Lang (lower right).

Calculus, a predominantly senior class, gives talented students a challenge, (lower right). The science department has tried to update its curricula through the addition of new subjects. Advanced chemistry and advanced biology are two such additions. Mary Molle and Lydia Marmaduke find the microscope a great aid in advanced biology, (left). Setting up for a chemistry lab is a highlight for first year students, Arden Machledt, Mark Warner,

Many diversified business courses are offered at GHS. Along with business math and business english are typing, shorthand, office practice and business law. Social studies provide students with a better knowledge of our country's government and heritage. American history, and international relations are electives. Participating in the mock election, David Miller, (Roudebush), and Bill Kirchoffer, (Bray), hope to gain votes through debates, (upper left). Mrs.

Barbara Baynes, new to Greenwood this year, grades typing papers while her students practice, (upper right). The legal aspects and terms of business law absorb everyone's attention, (above). Mr. Mike Walsman also in his first year teaching here, explains one of the principles of our government to his citizenship class, (right). One of the first semester's project in first period psychology was teaching Myron, a mouse, to run a maze. Running over his monogrammed

glee clubs take up slack in music department

The music department consists of choirs, bands, assistants, and directors. All work together to produce concerts, convocations, back-up choirs and bands, for the year. Creative and talented students give much of their time and ability to the many choral presentations. They have traveled to Ellettsville for the Fall Festival, to Columbus' Four Seasons Nursing Home, and to our State Legislature. They later made an appearance for the Indiana Nursing Association. The choral assistants are: left to right -- Sharon Malone, Martha Rhodes, Earl Hamm, Kathy Thompson, Cindy Miles, and Keith Terhune, (opposite page, upper left).

Office assistant Rita Bennett delivers a message to band director David Van Veld, (opposite page, upper right). Band officers spend most of their own time designing shows, organizing, student directing, and making decisions.

new facilities boost fine and practical arts

Industrial arts, besides being useful to the student, give variety to a day usually full of book study. They help "round out" the student and give him some practical knowledge he can use later. Mechanical drawing and drafting are useful to aspiring engineers and architects, while power mechanics, electronics, woods, and metals satisfy requirements for different fields of technology.

The home economics department is set up to coordinate all the talents a girl needs to be a successful homemaker, or to pursue a career. Cooking and sewing are basic courses that are needed by any girl planning to marry, while child development, family relations, and family living lead into careers in the home economics field.

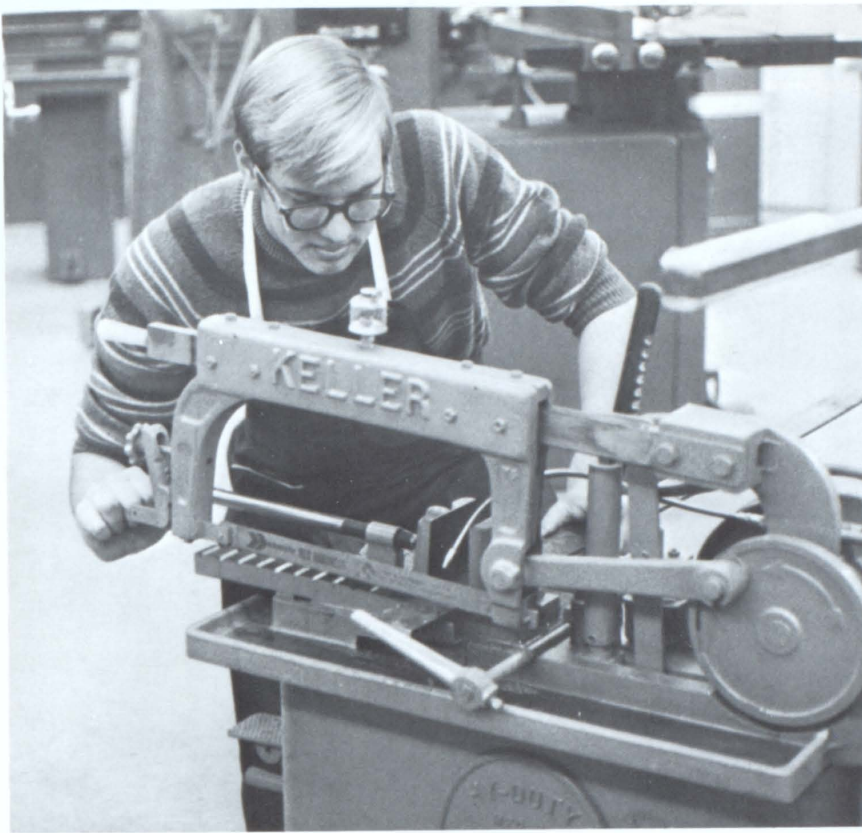

The library is an invaluable source of reference, and also a haven of study. Although there is always someone there studying, it is most crowded near the end of the semester when term papers and other major projects are due. Sometimes a serious discussion can be held if care is taken not to alert the librarian. Dara Workman and Margie Myers use the library for a quiet conversation (above). A home economics student works on her sewing project at the new Touch 'n Sew (lower right).

Mechanical drawing requires precision which used to be tried for by many. This year, however, the new machines facilitate drawing while giving more accuracy and speed to the operator. Mitch Owens and David Anderson make use of the new materials (upper right). Art Bensheimer, an aspiring industrial arts teacher, checks one of the power hack saws (opposite page, lower left). Mrs. Wood lectures to her home economics class (opposite page, upper right). Warren Clem assists a student in starting an engine (opposite page, lower right).

Making use of the library's new study niches and tables are members of the third year Latin class (opposite page, lower right).

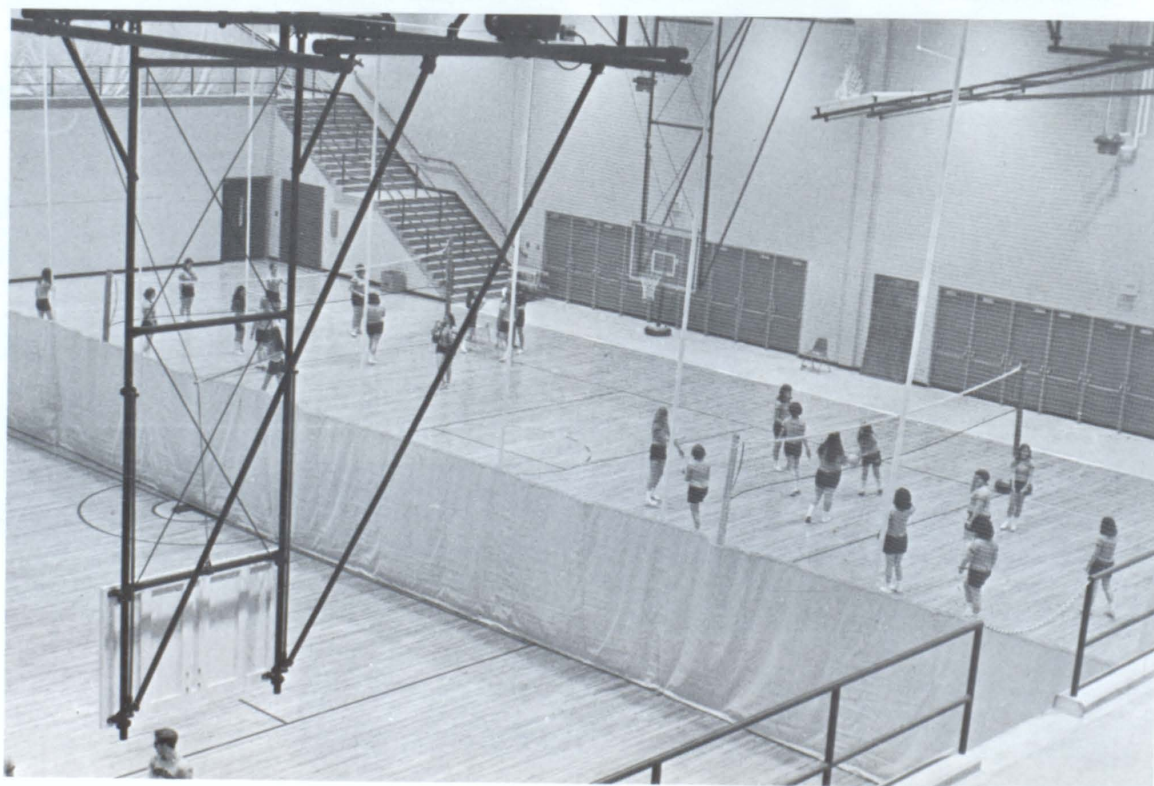

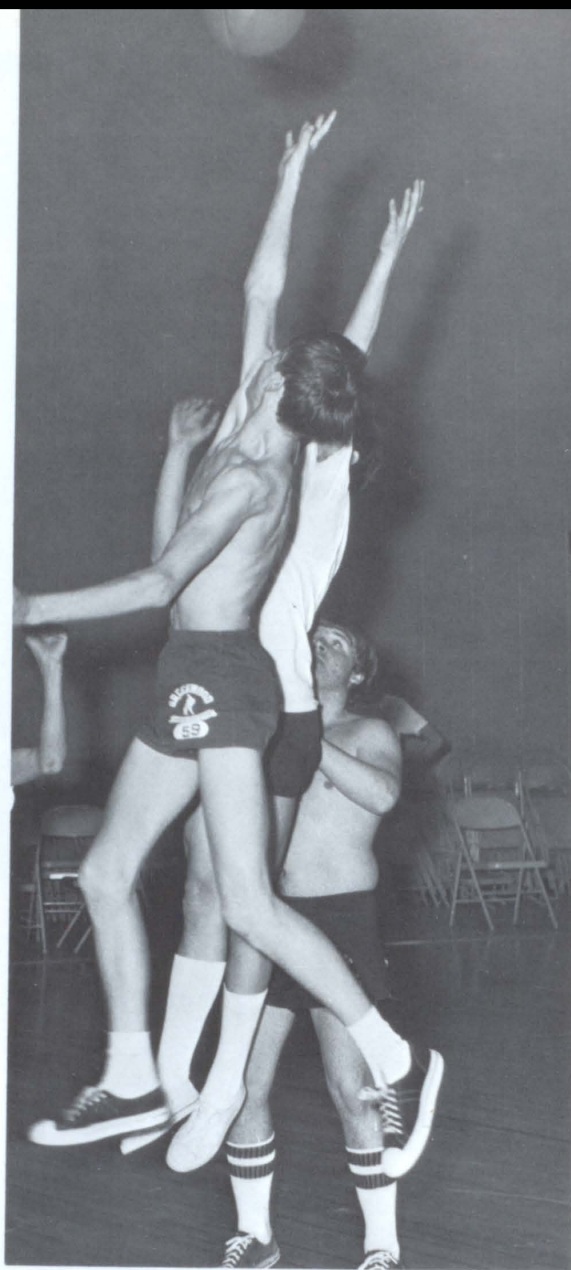

Physical Education is required for two years of everyone's high school career. Some students love it, some hate it. Whatever the attitude, one is bound to get caught up in the heat of competition in trying some new activity. Perfecting her seat drop is Patty Kantz, (below left). The shirts and the skins battle for a rebound during a basketball game, (right). Girls volleyball teams form geometric patterns around the nets when viewed from the practice balcony, (below). Drivers Education prepares students for their drivers licenses. Sometimes a friend is easier to listen to than the instructor. Guiding Mary Ralph

It takes a lot of people to run the high school office. Cooperation is very important between counselors, administrators, workers, and staff. When everyone works together, the office runs smoothly and the rest of the school follows suit. Mr. Charles Mellencamp, head of guidance, administers an achievement test to underclassmen, (below). Confering on a student's schedule are Mrs. McFerrer and Mrs. Talbott, freshman, sophomore, and

Meant to be used for study, C117 or the cafeteria supplies time for catching up on sleep or the morning's gossip. Keeping up in her reading for English class, a freshman girl concentrates on a required novel, (upper left). Taking advantage of study hall to catch up on lost sleep is a common habit, as Brian Hiatt shows, (upper right). A textbook becomes easier to read in a comfortable chair or in bed. However, it's not always possible to have these handy, so Arlene Hawk makes the best of the facilities available, (lower left). Review is easier with a friend if one acts as a teacher and the other as pupil. Quizzing Ellen Witcher is Michelle Barrick, (lower right).

The 1970 Cross Country team, coached by John Irons, placed sixth in the conference with a total of 138 points and fourth in the county. In triangular meets the Woodmen won first and second, and their dual meet record was one and five. Members of the squad are: ROW 1--left to right--Pat Burns, Mike Burns, Steve Rowland, Dennis McNulty. ROW 2--Jill Whittington, team mascot, Marshall Wolfe, Mark Smart, Dwight Howard, manager. ROW 3--Tim Rowland, Terry Thompson, Dick Beville, Mark Windisch. ROW 4--Roger Meier, Gordon Goins, John Irons, coach (right).

sportsmen name nichols to indiana all-stars

Basketball is a game of quickness, accuracy and rebounding; the 1970-71 Woodmen were talented in all three departments. Along with the talent comes the pressure of being heavy favorites in every game played. The Woodmen handled this fairly well throughout the season. Jack Nay's "firing squad" wound up with a sparkling 18--4 record. Three of the four losses came during tourney action. The re-crowned Mid-state champs were defeated by county rival Franklin ending the year with a sectional shocker.

the Indiana All-Stars and chosen on the third squad of the all-state basketball team was Jerry Nichols, (Middle). Senior team members were: ROW 1--

Oster, Guy Groff, and Mike McMullen call in results, keep statistics, and compile averages at the end of the year.

woodmen have unbeaten record in conference

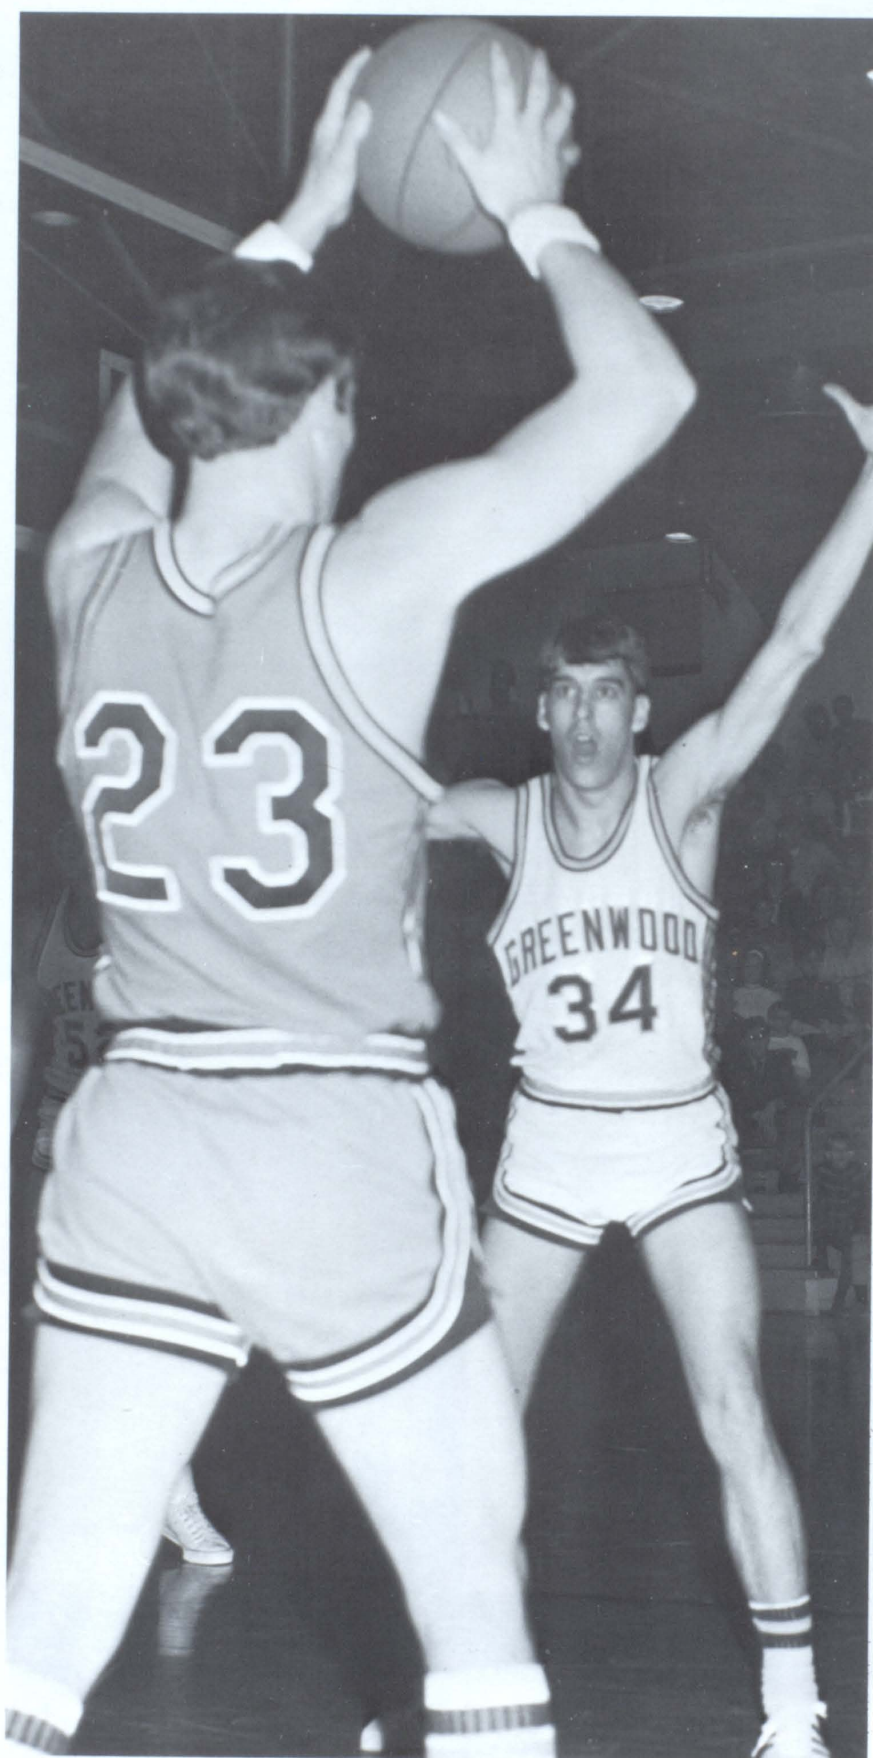

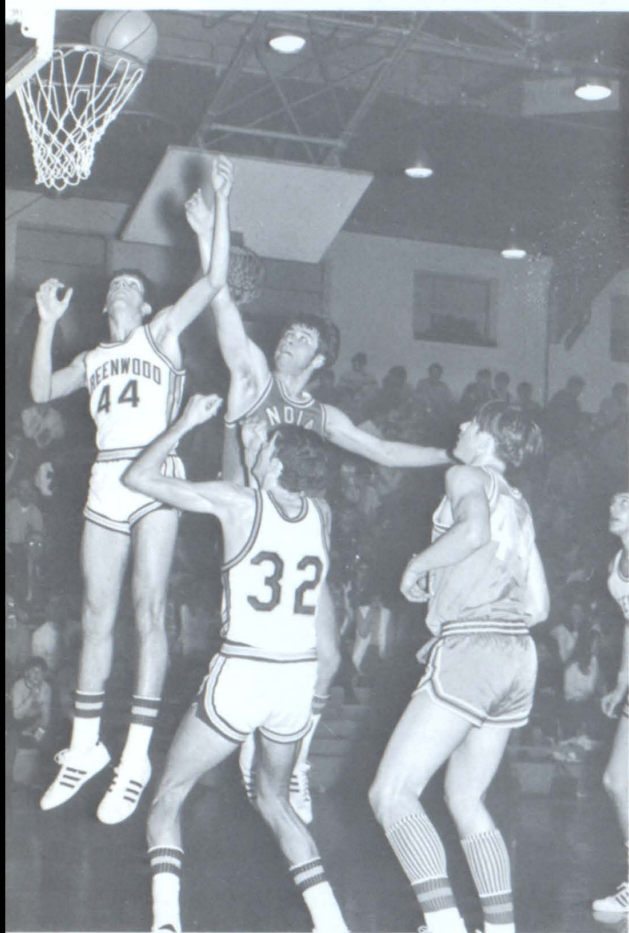

Starters Jerry Nichols, Mike McClain, Tim Dilk, and Bill Hensley are all graduating. Four other seniors will be gone next season. Nichols captured most of the "hardware" as he received the MVP, rebounding, and free throw trophies. McClain stole the defensive award as he did the ball all season. Hensley and Rick DeVore were co-winners for the Mental Attitude Award. Nichols, McClain, and Hensley were all named to the all mid-state team, with Nichols taking the "player of the year." Mid-state "coach of the year", Nay will be lacking experience for next year but the potential is still there and the pressure is not.

The 1971 season was a good one for varsity and reserve wrestlers alike. The varsity wrestling team, coached by Bob Whitson, and the reserve team, coached by Clarence Warthan, both had successful seasons. The varsity finished 10--3 before the tournaments. Awards were given to Most Valuable Wrestler Perry Need, Bill Riley for Mental Attitude, and the fastest pin award went to both Mark Warner and Mickey James for pins in :17. Winning for Coach Whitson in the county meet were: 145--Jeff Ferguson, 167--Mickey James, and Heavyweight--Perry Need.

The reserve team, under Coach Warthan, ran up a 6--3--1 record prior to the sectionals. In addition to Danny Wilson's 11--0 season and Jack Freund's eight pins, the reserves had four winners in the county meet. They were: 119--Dan Wilson, 145--Gary Malone, 167--Jim Frye, and Heavyweight--Dana Higdon. The skill evidenced by the reserves this year will be invaluable to Coach Whitson and the varsity team next year.

Winning track meets has finally become a tradition at Greenwood. The Woodmen, captained by Mike Hurst and Gordon Crail, took home the Johnson County championship in 1970 for the second year in a row. Coach Larry Keene's Woodmen put together another great year by beating thirty opponents, falling to seven, and tying one prior to the sectional meet. Senior Gordon Crail performed a feat never equalled in the history of GHS. He put two victories back to back in the state track championships. In doing this, Crail set a state record with a vault of 15' 5 1/2". He also held championships in the county, regional, mid-west, national and conference contests. Gordon

Crail will be remembered as first to win a state title at Greenwood, but hopefully not the last. Most Valuable Runner went to senior Mike Hurst, as he led the team with the most points earned. He took the high and low hurdles in the county meet and placed fourth in the sectional.

Records are meant to be

1970 track stars boost spirit and records broken and broken they were. Hurst shattered the low hurdles mark with a time of :20.1 and the high hurdles with a run of :15.6. Senior Mike Velez threw the shot put farther than ever for another school mark of 53/ 9 3/4". Junior "Jumping" Jerry Nichols' sectional jump cleaned the record slate again at 6/4". Setting a school record in the long jump was sophomore Jeff Davis with a leap of 20' 2 1/2". The mile run was covered fastest by senior "Hare" Thomas in 4:42 first. The two-mile was run in 10:39 by sophomore Dennis McNulty. The mile relay team of Jeff Davis, Harold Thomas, Brad Napier, and John Reister covered the distance in 3:33. The 880-yard relay was run in 1:36 by Dick Chaffin, Rick Stephens, Mike Hurst, and Gary Knotts. In the sprints, sophomore John Reister swept three record slates. His times were: 100 yard dash--:10.6, 220--1:23.5, and 440--:52.7. Sophomore Brad Napier set a record in the 880-yard dash with a flash of 2:04.1. The Woodmen have built a reputation as a powerful track team and hopefully will keep it up. Doing the managing were Mike Faris, Gordon Terhune, Dave

Richardson, and Brian Dawson.

The freshman track team, coached by Steve Winning, ran a record of 7--9 in the regular 1970 season. They were third of eight teams in the conference, and Mike Gregg set a new freshman long jump record of 19' 11 1/2". Rick Cannon and David Higginbotham were conference champions in the 440 and low hurdles respectively. The team worked hard building up for a bigger and better 1971 season.

Track 1971 lived up to the tradition of excitement set the previous year. The freshman track team, coached by Steve Winning, ended with a

7--8 record, and placed fourth in the Mid-State Conference. The only Mid-State champion was Steve Hogan in the 880 yard dash. Bill Williams was an outstanding 440 yard dash runner and also high individual point getter for the team.

Larry Keene's varsity squad had many outstanding members. The team as a whole placed second in the county and conference, and fourth in the sectional. The 880 relay team of Steve DeVore, Rick Cannon, Dave Higginbotham, and David Johns posted the second best time in the school's history. The mile relay team of Brad Napier, John Reister, Steve Rowland, and Jeff Davis set a new school record and the boys were also county champs, conference champs, North Central Relay champs, Underclass Relay champs, and placed third in the sectional.

Dennis McNulty was named the first member of the new 1,000 Mile Club by Coach Keene. Jeff Davis was named Most Valuable Runner, and McNulty was also given the Mental Attitude Award. Next year's team, led by co-captains Jeff Davis and John Reister, has a successful season ahead of them.

The varsity and reserve baseball teams, coached by Gary Vandergriff and John Swank respectively, played many games, both in Craig Park and on the road. The varsity team had a good season, finishing with a record of 9--6 overall. They tied for third in the conference with a 3--3 record. Senior Mike Young was named most valuable player for 1970, and also received the batting title. Young and sophomore Jim Boren were named to the all-county team. Young led the Woodmen at the plate with a .305 batting average. The leading underclassman along with Boren was freshman Mike Gregg. Homeruns were hit by Greg Morrison, Bill Hensley, and Mike Gregg. The reserves had a fair season, running up a 3--4 record under coach Swank.

The 1970 golf team under coach Ben Gunn, ran up a 4--7 season record. Junior Doug Pond was the most outstanding award winner and most valuable player for the team. Consistence was lacking in an otherwise decent season. After playing very well one week, the linkmen would slide down to mediocrity the next. The underclass members of the team are looking forward to a better season next year and, if they play to their expectations, the 1971 team should be greatly improved. Tennis and golf were big at Greenwood this year. The 1971 season was a successful one for both teams. The golf team, coached by Ben Gunn, completed the season with a record of seven wins, four losses, and one tie. The team placed second in the county and Mid-State and eighth in the sectional. Jon Myers was county medalist with a 79, the lowest score of all county linksmen.

The putting trophy went to Bran Pond with an average of 15.9 putts per nine holes. The best average trophy went to brother Doug Pond with an average of 42.4 strokes per nine holes.

The tennis team, coached by Tom Bates, completed its third season with a record for dual meets of seven wins and four losses. The team placed third in the Speedway Invitational and tied for second in the Mid-State Conference. Most Valuable Player for 1971 was Jim Royce with an individual record of sixteen wins and eight losses. Senior Wes Klutts was awarded the best record trophy for his season of 19--5.

The 1971 baseball season started slowly for both the varsity and reserve squads. The reserve team, coached by John Swank, ended its season with a 2--7 record. Freshman David Vleck captured the best hitter and pitcher honors with a .308 average.

Coach Gary Vandergriff led his varsity baseballers through an 8--10 season. Tim Dilk, Mike McClain, Dana Higdon, and Bill Hensley were chosen to the all-county team; Dilk and McClain also made the conference team.

Mike McClain earned the batting trophy for his phenomenal .571 average. McClain also captured the Most Valuable Player award. The team's best pitcher was Tim Dilk, who had a 6--5 record.

The team's record in the conference was 3--4, and this placed their standing in the conference at fifth place. With all their experienced underclassmen, both the reserve and varsity squads should have good seasons next spring.

volleyball tourney adds to activities

G.A.A. co-sponsored by Marcia Walker and Carolyn Collins, played a full schedule of games and tournaments this year. The girls played ping pong, did stunts on the trampoline, and they played crab ball in addition to basketball, volleyball, and football. The G.A.A. volleyball team came in third out of 31 teams in the White-land tourney after finishing a successful season. The girls played football in the fall, but the annual Powder Puff gridiron classic was scrubbed because of the weather. The varsity basketball team, led in scoring by Delana Chaney, Carolyn Miller, and Arden Machledt, ended their season of play with a 5--4 record. A volleyball tournament was organized in the spring. There were 12 teams, 11 made up of G.A.A. members and one made up of women faculty members. The winner of the tourney was the team made up of Carolyn Miller, Captain, Marla Kroger, Denise Smith, Delana Chaney, and Arden Machledt.

A slumber party was held April 23, in the high school gym. Freshman members were initiated by upperclassmen during the night. An awards banquet was held in the spring. There were three winners of the state-wide plaque, given after a girl earns 350 points. Receiving the plaques were Denise Smith, Arden Machledt, and Carolyn Miller.

In its third season under director Steve Lang, intramural basketball ran from the first week after Christmas vacation until March 27. It was started to provide supervised, friendly competition for boys not participating in school-sponsored teams. The games were refereed by reserve and varsity basketball players and Mr. Lang. The league was won by Danny Osborne and his defense-minded team, who racked up a 11--0 record. The team consisted of Osborne, Roger Crouch, Mike Alvey, Pete Sims, Arthur Ingram, Tony Sloan, Dean Gilmour, Steve Ashworth, and Paul Kite, and had an average of 35.5 points per game. The leading offensive average was produced by Guy Groff's team, scoring an average of 53.4 points per game.

Leading scorers for the league were John Sullender with 240 points, Mitch Owen with 205 points, and John Reister with 183 points. Steve Rowland led free throw shooters with 77% and Larry Taylor followed closely with 70%. The teams of John Reister and Rick Burkhart scored the high game of 72 points, and Mickey James had the high individual game of 51 points.

The winning style of Osborne's team is evidenced by their statistics. Their offensive average was 46.4 points per game, their defensive average 35.5 points per game. Each game they played was characterized by balanced scoring, which contributed to their victories over their opponents.

anxious homecoming candidates await parade

this year's homecoming proved to be an exciting one for many people. in addition to being the first such celebrated in the county, it happened on an unusually warm and pretty day. although this fact might have caused the football team and the band some discomfort, it pleased fans and participants in the parade. crepe paper, napkins, and papier-mache sagged as float builders tried frantically to bolster things until after the judging. although their float sagged a bit before the parade, the juniors were victorious in the competition for the fourth year in a row. the one disappointment of the day was speedway's 21--0 victory, otherwise, the day was "sunny," literally and figuratively. before being crowned queen, freshman candidate marla kroger pins escort dick cromley's boutonniere on in preparation for the parade, (above). posing proudly in front of their class float, sophomore candidate nancy hagner and escort rick knight anticipate the festivities, (right). marla kroger, queen, and mickey james, bachelor of the year, reigned over the "pigskin prom" held annually after the homecoming game.

The Miss Woodman contest was revived for its second year in 1971. Three senior girls were nominated by Quill and Scroll members and journalism students, and yearbook purchasers voted on their favorite when they ordered their books. The nominees this year were Lou Ann Brown, Laurie Dalglish, and Margie Myers. Laurie was crowned Miss Woodman 1971 at the Quill and Scroll sponsored Winter Sports King Dance, and reigned over the evening's activities.

'wine and roses' is last senior fling

"the days of wine and roses" set the theme for the may 15, 1971 junior-senior prom at sherwood country club. a gazebo entwined with roses, a "champagne" fountain, candles in wine bottles, and hand-painted murals added to the romantic atmosphere of the night. guests were greeted at the door by junior class officers betsey richy, mike cunningham, and gayle pine. co-chairman for the entire prom were kevin hiatt and patty coryell, and individual committee chairman were shelly harder, vicki jones, mark lasiter, diane freshour, bonnie ashton and pam kite. music was provided from 8:30 to 11:30 by the bill turner orchestra.

the post-prom, also at sherwood, was from 12:30 to 3:30. it was sponsored by the parents of the junior class and community businessmen and merchants. entertainment was provided by a rock band and the "tons of fun."

the annual winter sports king dance, sponsored by quill and scroll, was held february 12 in the new high school cafeteria. the theme for the dance was "valentines of the past" and decorations and serving were provided by quill and scroll members. the annual christmas dance was co-sponsored this year by sunshine and student council. getting the tree for the dance required an expedition to brown county, but the resulting 30-foot tree was worth it. however, most of the tree had to be cut off to fit in the cafeteria, and in the end only the top was used.

new auditorium sets mood for convocations

Convocations were plentiful this year, but most of them seemed to come in the first semester. Three entertainment convos were chosen by the Student Council, two just materialized, and there were school-sponsored band concerts, athletic awards programs, initiations, and elections. All in all, there was a wide variety of assemblies on hand.

This year's Student Council was indeed an "action" group. Led by President, David Henning and Vice-president, Laura Ginger, the members accomplished much. Perhaps the largest of their accomplishments was the revision of the dress code to permit girls to wear dress slacks and boys to wear their hair in any style they wish. This was done after much work on the part of the members with the administration and the school board. They worked on many other projects during the year. Delegates include: ROW 1--Ren Miller, treasurer, sophomore, Suzi Ross, corresponding secretary, junior, Marsha Fuller, recording secretary, senior, Laura Ginger, vice-president, junior, David Henning, president, Mr. Ben Gunn, sponsor. National Honor Society is an organization formed to honor juniors and seniors who possess superior scholarship, leadership, character, and service. Ten percent of a class is inducted in a spring initiation, and five percent more are inducted in the fall. The spring initiation held this year was the biggest ever held at Greenwood. Twenty four juniors were initiated in the society under a new system designed by club sponsor Mrs. Lopp. The group is largely an honorary, and its main projects are planning initiations and running the coat check. Members were: ROW 1--Margie Myers, secretary, Cheri Day, treasurer, Mrs. Lopp, sponsor, Alan Bailey, president, Jill Whittington, vice-president. quill and scroll sponsors diversified activities

Quill and Scroll, an international honor society for high school journalists, started at G.H.S. three years ago. They can be members of the TIMBERLINES or WOODMAN staff, correspondents to the Daily Journal, or enrolled in either of the journalism classes. They are evaluated in terms of their grade average, contributions in journalism, and their over-all character by students who are already members of the society.

Quill and Scroll was very active this year in planning activities and projects. They sponsored the Winter Sports King Dance in February, the election of Miss Woodman, two initiations of new members, various trips to journalism conferences and workshops, and sponsored publication of the LOG, a collection of original artwork, poems, and short stories written by students. It was edited by Kevin Hiatt and Cheri Day.

choirs show special music talents

The choral department, headed by Mr. Walter Lamble, improved in many ways over last year. New techniques in reading music, learning songs, and practicing were instituted, along with new songs and arrangements. The appearance of the choral department as a whole was changed with the addition of two new choirs. Concert choir, mixed chorus, and the front line singers were joined by two uni-sex groups, Girls Chorus and Boys Chorus.

The choirs themselves, groups made up of just a few students, and solo performers, travelled to contests and captured superior ratings. Under the direction of Mr. Lamble, different groups performed at club meetings, dinners, and banquets. The choral department also presented two musicals, and HELLO DOLLY, during the year.

captains, class lieutenants organize routines for shows

Saluting the flag, as Jane Mize shows, right, or saluting the audience at the end of a performance, as Barbara Hillis demonstrates, below, are two basic rudiments poms and majorettes must know for successful performances.

This year the "Woodmenettes" and "Goldenaires" displayed precision and pep in all routines performed during half-time of home football and basketball games.

Routines were done to popular tunes like Hawaii Five-O and Aquarius.

New pom-poms and diversified costumes for different routine themes, add extra flash for fine performances.

Activities during the year include performances at band days, home football and basketball games, local parades and State Fair Band Day.

Delbert Lakes, a member of the sophomore class, was killed in a motorcycle accident in the fall of 1970. He was a member of the reserve football and wrestling teams. The loss of Delbert as a classmate, friend and competitor was a tragic situation for Greenwood High School students.

Expressing her congratulations, Mary Kay Loos admires Sheree South's trophy which was earned at the Indianapolis Area Quill and Scroll Press Day. Cheryll Harrison and Vona Liford add their best wishes to their sophomore friend.

The biggest job the Junior class had facing them was financing the Junior-Senior Prom. They raised their money by running two concession stands at both football and basketball games. Leading the class in these projects were Betsy Richey, President; Mike Cunningham, Vice-President; Suzi Ross, Secretary; Gayle Pine, Treasurer; Mr. William McFerran and Mr. Al Stone, sponsors.

For the fourth consecutive year their class has won the float competition at homecoming. They are awaiting next year for the challenge of winning again.

enrollment causes administrators concern

Opening the new school, the administration had the task of hiring several new teachers. They also took the job of financing the new facility. The purchasing of new buses facilitated in the transport of pupils to and from school. Members of the board are: FRONT ROW--Dwight Howard, Dr. Joseph Young, vice-president; Warren Beville, president; Dr. Richard Norman, secretary; and William Crawford. BACK ROW-- Wayne Donson, assistant superintendent; Dr. Earl Blemker, superintendent; and Clifford Antcliff, board attorney.

Ralph Marshall, principal, and Leonard Scotten, assistant principal, have the main job of faculty scheduling, although they do take disciplinary measures when necessary. Besides faculty programming, they are in charge of convocation scheduling and administrating all faculty committees. They also had to wrestle with the growing enrollment and the many problems it caused.

cooks hard at work serving lunch to students

The cooks of GHS provide a well-balanced, nutritious meal each day for some 920 students. The students enter the cafeteria in three 30 minute shifts according to the way the classrooms are situated on the newschool buildings' two floors. Along with the regular basic lunch, the new cafeteria features an a la carte line. Here students can buy a hot sandwich, milk and dessert, along with milkshakes, salads, potato chips and various fruit drinks. Students then dine in a modern, color-coordinated dining room styled with orange, white and green chairs. For the student's added pleasure, an undertone of contemporary music is piped into the cafeteria to entertain them during their meal.

The work and effort put into making the 1971 WOODMAN has been tremendous. Many hours of frustration, broken pica rulers, and late hours are just a few of the things the staff has had to cope with.

I wish to thank Mr. McCarthy for the patience and guidance he had in helping me learn the fundamentals of putting a yearbook together. To Kevin and Laura I express my deepest appreciation for everything they have done and wish them good luck next year. The staff editors receive thanks for their outstanding jobs in their individual areas.

Our excellent photography was provided for the entire book by Beverly Studios of Indianapolis.

Margie Myers

The 1971 WOODMAN staff dedicated many hours of their time to producing the yearbook. Work sessions were at least two nights a week, and special sessions were scheduled on Saturdays and during vacation when there was a deadline to be met. Activities editors Carol Howe and Dara Workman, seniors, sort through the group pictures needed for a layout (above). Associate editor Kevin Hiatt, junior, and senior section editor Lou Ann Brown, senior, discuss the best arrangement of senior pictures (middle). Editor-in-chief Margie Myers, senior, looks through the "dummy" yearbook for completed pages (below).
